MASTER FUND COMMENTARY

As of 29 August 2025

Fund Performance

The Signature CIO Growth Fund delivered another month of strong returns in August as markets found support from resilient corporate earnings, strong AI- driven spending, and improved stability in bond markets.

Our overweight in global equities contributed positively. Global equities delivered strong performance in August, beating both global bonds and cash. A key driver was the robust second-quarter earnings season, where US corporate profits soundly beat analysts' muted expectations.

Our overweight position in EM local currency (EM LCY) bonds also performed well. A weaker dollar in 2025 has boosted FX-driven returns. Overall, EM bonds continued to see positive net inflow in August 2025, supported by investor conviction in high carry currency trades.

The decision to diversify DM IG government bonds with unhedged exposure has continued to benefit the portfolio, particularly with the ongoing weaker dollar observed in July.

Additionally, our opportunistic trade on Korean equity added value. Market initially reacted negatively to a new tax reform agenda. However, the new plan is not final and is still pending review by the government. Following a sharp correction in early August, we capitalized on the rebound in key sectors, locking in profits. Since inception, this trade has delivered a gain of 10%, outperforming Asia ex-Japan equities by 1.9%.

Conversely, our overweight in Asia ex-Japan equity underperformed relative to global developed markets. Positive news such as the extension of the US- China trade truce until November and China's ambitious plan to triple its chip supply by 2026 helped support Chinese technology names. However, elsewhere in the region, tax reform pressures weighed on South Korea stocks, while Indian equities were challenged by the imposition of a 50% US tariff.

Meanwhile, our underweight position in UK equities detracted from performance. Despite a challenging domestic backdrop, higher-than-expected July inflation, a relatively hawkish Bank of England, and a weakening US jobs market, UK equities still posted a solid gain of 3.6% in USD terms.

Fund Positioning

We remain Overweight and bullish on global equities over the next 6-12 months. However, the remarkable strength in major equity markets, especially US stocks, may have lowered investors' guard when it comes to US trade policy and inflation risks. Therefore, we are vigilant about short-term volatility.

Our top-ranked preference remains Asia ex-Japan equities. That said, we have taken profit on our opportunistic trade in Korean equity and reallocated the proceeds back to broader Asia ex-Japan equity.

Global bonds remain a core in our foundation portfolios and have an overweight view on EM local currency government bonds. We believe benign EM inflation and relatively strong fiscal positions would result in high real (net of inflation) yields, while a weak USD would provide a tailwind. Moreover, EM LCY bonds have low correlation with DM Bonds, providing diversification benefits.
