Signature CIO Income Fund Open Ended IC PLC

MASTER FUND COMMENTARY

As of 31 October 2025

Fund Performance

The Signature CIO Income Fund eked out positive returns in October despite sharp market swings.

Our overweight to equities relative to bonds added value. The incremental increase to global equities contributed positively to performance, as growth stocks continued to outperform value stocks, driven by renewed enthusiasm for AI. However, this came at the expense of dividend equities.

Covered call strategies outperformed dividend equities. Outperformance was supported by both positive option premiums in a range-bound volatility environment and broad equity market gains with a focus in growth stocks.

Within fixed income, the preference for US Agency MBS over DM IG government bonds proved beneficial. Strong investor demand and continued spread compression supported the performance of US Agency MBS through October.

Conversely, the preference for REITs detracted from performance as interest rate-sensitive sectors faced headwinds. Similarly, the reduction in DM HY bonds weighed on returns, as the high yielding credits outperformed IG peers, with higher yields cushioning the modest spread widening.

Fund Positioning

The fund continues to be well-positioned for the current market environment, and the sources of income are well-diversified across various asset classes.

Our relative allocation between bonds and equities remains largely unchanged. We stay constructive on risk assets by adding marginally to global equities and global dividend equities. As we move further along in the rate-cutting cycle, we maintain a positive view on REITs and covered call strategies in the multi-asset income portfolio. However, given their strong performance in recent weeks, we have taken profit and trimmed Overweight positions versus long-term strategic allocations.

Within fixed income, we have positioned the bond sleeve more defensively by increasing allocation to DM IG Government bond and marginally increasing exposure to US Agency MBS bonds. We forecast the US 10-year government bond yield to range between 3.75% and 4% over the next 12 months.

Exposure to high-yielding credit remains broadly unchanged, though we continue to gradually reduce our allocation to DM HY bonds given the already sizable position in the portfolio. We stay positive on sub-financials, supported by attractive income potential and the structural resilience in banking sector that is well-capitalized.

We have initiated a bullish Asia USD IG bonds idea. An imbalanced supply- demand dynamic is the key catalyst – Strong domestic demand due to falling deposit rates, while supply is expected to remain subdued as refinancing has largely been conducted through organic cashflows and domestic LCY markets.
