MASTER FUND COMMENTARY

Fund Performance

The Signature CIO Growth portfolio registered positive albeit more modest performance this month. May was characterised by constructive conditions, with risk appetite supported by resilient growth data. Geopolitical developments, notably evolving dynamics in the Middle East, introduced episodic volatility in energy and haven assets but did not materially disrupt the broader monthly risk regime.

The equity sleeve led performance as the portfolio maintained the pro-risk stance that proved supportive as equity markets continued their rally. The overweight in US, neutral in Europe and Japan contributed positively but slightly offset by the neutral in Asia ex-Japan which was downgraded from overweight to neutral at the beginning of May following a strong rally year-to-date.

The fixed income sleeve also contributed positively with modest returns across most segments but led by EM (USD & LCY) debt. Government bonds remain an underweight, consistent with the preference for credit and EM debt over DM rates.

Fund Positioning

Despite the constructive month, we keep a close eye on corporate earnings and oil prices - two key themes dominating the narrative for financial markets. Year-to-date (YTD), positivity around the earnings growth outlook has dominated, helping drive global equities close to double-digit gains. However, renewed US threats of military action in the Middle East are starting to return the focus to oil prices and the resultant risks of inflation. Following our view of a broadening rally and to keep a more balanced portfolio stance across regions, the US is the only region we remain overweight.
